The American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM) Industry Engagement Program is an annual program consisting of organizations interested in advancing the sleep medicine field and support the AASM's mission and vision. The program provides participants the opportunity to:

- Establish and build strategic business relationships
- Foster open dialogue among key industry representatives who have ties to the medical specialty
- Gain greater understanding of mutual areas of interest
- Promote the advancement of the association and the medical specialty

In turn, the approved organizations are offered a variety of benefits, which are scaled based on the level of support. The strategic business relationships are intended to support the development and growth of the association and the medical specialty.

The AASM at its sole discretion reserves the right to accept or reject applicants/participants at any time. Application fees are due with the application and are non-refundable. The AASM's acceptance of an Industry Engagement Program participant shall in no way imply a direct affiliation or partnership with the AASM and shall in no way include any perceived endorsement by the AASM. The AASM will not work with organizations that reflect in a negative manner on the AASM or do not align with its organizational objectives. Organizations who participate in the Industry Engagement Program will not have any influence on operational or policy matters. The AASM will be vigilant in ensuring that this program and business relationships do not compromise the integrity and objectivity of the AASM's activities.

Organizations that participate in the Industry Engagement Program are not permitted to use the AASM's name or logo in any of their own promotional activities and must submit all promotional/advertising materials that reference or promote the Industry Engagement Program to the National Office for review and approval. These items must comply with the AASM's advertising terms and conditions.
